- 1.2 All library employees have a responsibility to respect their co-workers and the public they serve. Managers have additional responsibilities. Managers are obligated to discourage harassment in the workplace; to take reasonable steps to prevent it; and to take appropriate corrective action to deal with workplace harassment if and when it occurs.
- 1.3 Complaints that are trivial, frivolous or vexatious and/or made in bad faith will not be addressed as personal harassment complaints.
- 1.4 Complaints that result from legitimate performance management, exercise or delegation of managerial authority, operational directives, disagreement or misunderstanding, job assignment, work related change, a single comment, action or rudeness that has no lasting harmful effect and is not extreme or repetitive will not be addressed.
- 1.5 This policy was written in accordance with Bill 168 and Bill 132, which are Acts to amend the Occupational Health & Safety Act.

2. APPLICATION OF PROGRAM

- 2.1 This harassment in the workplace program applies to all employees of the library, as well as volunteers, co-op placements, students, agents of the library, consultants, contractors and the Board in dealings with employees, volunteers, co-op placements, students, agents, consultants, contractors and Board of the Library.

If such harassment occurs, the library will take any steps available to ensure a harassment free workplace, including barring the individual who is the subject of a report from its facility, where appropriate, or discontinuing business with that individual.

4.3 Bullying

Bullying is a type of harassment that can be difficult to define. It is seen as acts or verbal comments that could 'mentally' hurt or isolate a person in the workplace. It may involve negative physical contact. It usually involves repeated incidents or a pattern of behaviour that is intended to intimidate, offend, degrade or humiliate a particular person or group of people. Bullying can be very subtle and may actually be a pattern of behaviour involving one or more incidents. It is also described as the assertion of power through aggression. Examples of bullying include the following:

- Spreading malicious rumours, gossip, or innuendo
- Excluding or isolating someone socially
- Intimidating a person
- Undermining or deliberately impeding a person's work
- Physically abusing or threatening abuse
- Removing areas of responsibilities without cause
- Constantly changing work guidelines
- Establishing impossible deadlines that will set up the individual to fail
- Setting someone up to fail
- Damaging someone's reputation through gossip or other means
- Extreme micromanaging
- Withholding necessary information or purposefully giving the wrong information
- Making jokes that are 'obviously offensive' by spoken word, e-mail, verbally or in writing
- Intruding on a person's privacy by pestering, spying or stalking
- Assigning unreasonable duties or workload which are unfavourable to one person (in a way that creates unnecessary pressure)
- Underwork - creating a feeling of uselessness
- Yelling or using profanity

- Unwarranted punishment
- Blocking applications for training, leave or promotion
- Tampering with a person's personal belongings or work equipment

5. INFORMATION AND INSTRUCTION ON WORKPLACE POLICY/PROGRAM

The employer will provide all workers with information and instruction on the contents of the workplace harassment policy/program. Workers will be instructed on:

- What conduct is considered workplace harassment, including workplace sexual harassment, and how to recognize it;
- How and to whom to report an incident of workplace harassment;
- How the employer will investigate and deal with an incident or complaint of workplace harassment; and
- How the employer will report the results of the investigation to the worker who allegedly experienced workplace harassment and the alleged harasser, if the alleged harasser is a worker of the employer.

Workers will be informed of substantial changes to the policy/program.

Supervisors and managers must be provided with additional information and instruction, on how to recognize workplace harassment and how to handle a complaint of workplace harassment.

Investigators, whether a manager, supervisor, human resource representative or a person designated by the employer, must receive information and instruction on how to conduct an investigation appropriate in the circumstances, including not to disclose identifying information unless it is necessary to conduct the investigation, to take corrective action or otherwise as required by law.

Joint health and safety committee or health and safety representatives must receive information and instruction on the employer's workplace harassment program including how to help a worker report an incident of workplace harassment and resources available to a worker who has allegedly experienced harassment.

6. WORKPLACE CONDUCT THAT IS NOT HARASSMENT

Workplace harassment does not include the proper exercise of responsibility or authority related to the provision of advice, assignment of work, counseling, performance evaluation, discipline and supervisory functions. Private verbal disagreements or personality differences are not usually harassment. Consensual banter or romantic relationships are not harassment. However, if anyone feels uncomfortable with this behaviour, and the behaviour continues even after this person expresses their discomfort, then it is harassment. It would also constitute harassment if the harasser should have known that the person was uncomfortable.

7. PROCEDURE IN EVENT OF HARASSMENT

7.1 Complainant

- Immediately make it clear to the offender that his/her behaviour or language is not welcome.
- If uncomfortable approaching the offender directly, the complainant may seek the assistance of his/her Manager and/or his/her Union Representative.
- File a complaint
See Section 17: How to Report Workplace Harassment

7.2 Alleged Offender

- The alleged offender will be informed and asked for a written reply including a record of dates, times, the nature of the behaviour or language and witnesses if any.

8. REMEDIAL ACTION

- If there is no satisfactory evidence of harassment, no record of the complaint will be kept in any persons file and parties will be informed in writing of this effect.
- If an offense is confirmed and action is recommended:
 - Action shall be taken without delay.
 - The Library Board, CEO and/or Managers will impose sanctions on the offender with an understanding of the seriousness of the misconduct and follow the general principles of corrective discipline.

9. INVESTIGATION

Barrie Public Library will ensure that an investigation appropriate in the circumstances is conducted when the CEO, or any manager or supervisor becomes aware of an incident of workplace harassment or receives a complaint of workplace harassment.

9.2 Appointing an Investigator

- The investigator must be competent and be perceived as such within the organization, with a knowledge of the relevant workplace harassment laws, whether they are internal or external.

- i. Ensure the investigation is kept confidential and identifying information is not disclosed unless necessary to conduct the investigation. The investigator will remind the parties of this confidentiality obligation at the beginning of the investigation.

- iv. Interview any relevant witnesses employed by the employer who may be identified by either the complainant, the alleged harasser(s) or as necessary to conduct a thorough investigation. The report must set out findings of fact and come to a conclusion about whether workplace harassment was found or not.

9.5 Results of the Investigation

Within 10 days of the investigation being completed, the complainant and the alleged harasser, if he or she is a worker of the employer, will be informed in writing of the results of the investigation and any corrective action taken or that will be taken by the employer to address workplace harassment.

While the investigation is on-going, the complainant, the alleged harasser(s) and any witnesses will be directed to not discuss the incident or complaint or the investigation with each other or other workers or witnesses. The investigator may discuss the investigation and disclose the incident or complaint-related information only as necessary to conduct the investigation.

All records of the investigation will be kept confidential. The investigation documents, including the report should not be disclosed unless necessary to investigate an incident or complaint of workplace harassment, to take corrective action or otherwise as required by law.

12. INFORMAL COMPLAINT PROCEDURE

When a complaint is brought forth informally (that is, no formal written complaint is filed) to the designated person, the employer has an obligation to make inquiries and determine the veracity of the allegations. It may be possible to resolve the complaint through informal discussions with each party or through a process of informal mediation. If the matter is not resolved informally, the complainant will be encouraged to file a formal complaint. The employee will always be advised of his or her right to proceed by filing a formal complaint.
