Let us reintroduce ourselves

You may have noticed a new look to our newsletter. We are pleased to introduce you to the new Barrie Public Library logo and brand.

Our old ‘archway’ logo was created in 1996 when the Downtown Branch was built, and it was based on the architecture of the building. When we opened our Painswick Branch in 2012 the logo didn’t quite represent our whole library system. It was time for a refresh.

For the past year, we have been working with rebranding specialists, Intent, a creative communications agency that works exclusively with non-profits. A new logo was developed through an extensive process that included consultation with the public, staff and volunteers. It was a unanimous decision which logo represented the Barrie Public Library perfectly – The Comma Hub

While our new logo is visually pleasing, modern and fresh, there’s more to it than initially meets the eye.

The four ‘spokes’ of the hub are commas or apostrophes. The core of what we do at the library centres around communication. Books, movies, music and conversations all involve words and punctuation. The comma was the perfect symbol to capture this.

These commas come together to form a hub, symbolic of the fact that the library is a place where people from all walks of life come together.

Our branches are welcoming, barrier-free public spaces. People meet here to study for exams, try new technology, work on their small business plan or pursue personal interests. Everyone has an equal opportunity to learn, grow and explore.

As society evolves, we are constantly changing with the times to make sure we are supporting our community the best we can. This new world is exciting and fast-paced, and a big change from the traditional perception of libraries being quiet places where you only come for books.

We hope you love the Barrie Public Library’s new logo as much as we do. Isn’t it time you came for a visit?
